Foreword

Through the eyes of a casual beholder this book is only paper and ink, but the staff of the 1959 HANOVERIAN holds that its real and lasting composition much more It is made of work work in the class. room and in the quiet hours of home study, in the hustle of meeting a deadline, in the noisy confusion of stage-setting and prop-making, in the work of student government committees, in the activities and projects of clubs, and in all the things which make New Hanover High School the institution that it is.

Friendship is a valuable component also — friendship as the students walk the halls with their class mates, friendship as they study together, faculty-student friendship as the students receive the counseling and serious advice from their instructors. No group could exist without friendship, and it plays a great part in this year-book.

Then the HANOVERIAN is composed of knowledge — that wonderful light which drives men forward. The success of the many outstanding students demonstrates the desire for knowledge at N.H.H.S., for without knowledge there would be no HANOVERIAN. The desire for knowledge is the basis of all things. This book is founded on knowledge, and that is a strong foundation.

Last of all there is recreation—and what a delightful reward for the rigor of work and the seeking of knowledge! Recreation in the form of sports events, of dances, of parties, of plays, and of the many other varied forms which recreation takes at N.H.H.S.—there are all of these.

The purpose of any good vearbook is to present a year of school life. The purpose of a theme is to tie this pictorial and verbal presentation together and to give it unity. The 1959 HANOVERIAN has a theme that is somewhat different from its ancestors. The theme is a shape — a design — an idea. That design, or shape, is the four-cornered star. That idea is the quartet listed above—each item could be said to be symbolized in a corner of the star. These four points, then—work, friendship, knowledge, and recreation — form the basis of our underlying theme - the four-cornered star. The staff has endeavored to unify the HANOVERIAN with this modern design.

Yes, these are the real things that have gone into the making of this book. But more than that, all these are really the making of memories to be—these events to be relived, these days to be remembered, these doors to be reopened, as these pages are turned in the days of our lives that are yet to come.

WE DEDICATE . . .

A simple thank you seems little return for the self-sacrificing devotion, genuine character, honesty, and-most of all-human understanding of a certain teacher at N.H.H.S. She has not only given tirelessly of her time and talents, but she has instilled in the students standards of character and integrity, seldom surpassed. The true quality of understanding and the beauty of friendliness that surrounds her has lifted the spirits of those with which she comes into contact as she is ever ready with her warming smile and helping hand. By teaching the forms of proper government and English by lectures, class discussion, and diagrams, she fills an important need in the educational process of N.H.H.S. But more than just a teacher of government and English, she has aided and inspired her students to achieve the very best in life.

In acknowledgment for her contribution as an educator and person, the staff of the 1959 HANOVERIAN dedicates this yearbook to a woman who has taken a sincere interest in students, and who has always been willing to give her loyalty, help, and friendship to all — Mrs. Ruth Warren.

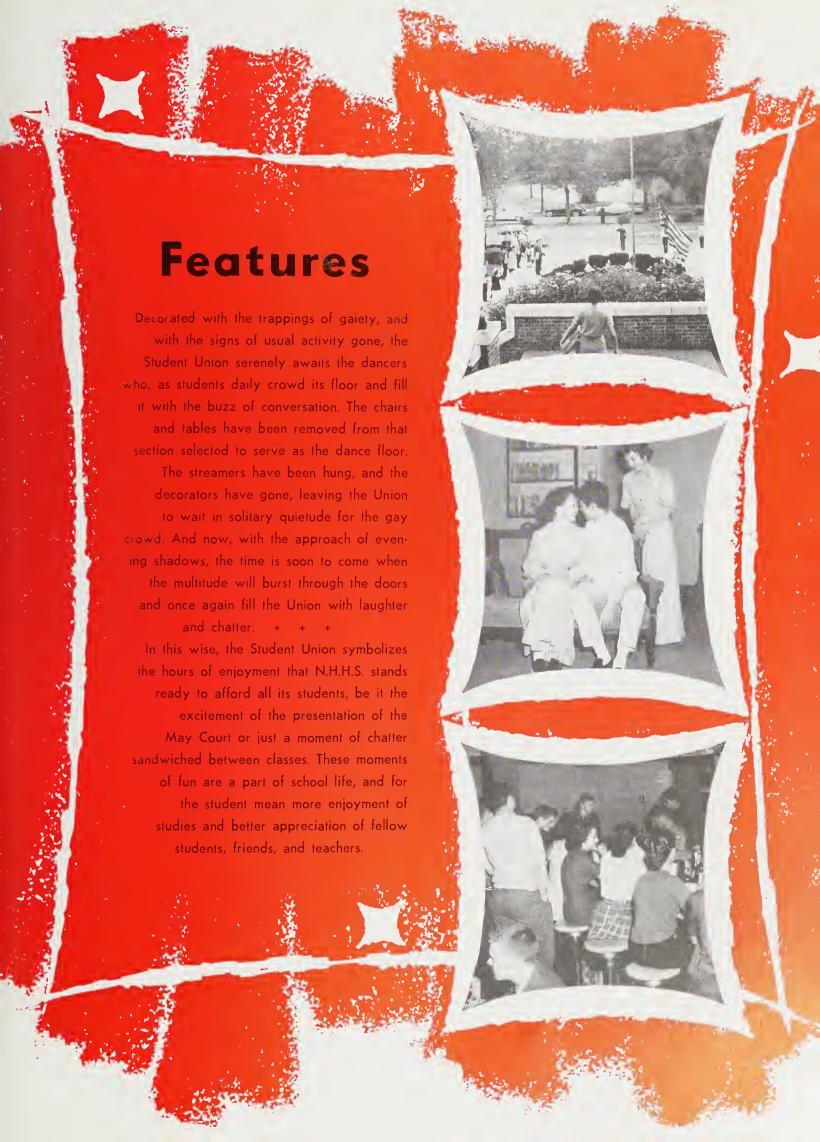

Mrs. Warren chats with fellow teachers over a meal in the cafeteria.

The Seniors of New Hanover High School will always hold a spot dear in their hearts for their teacher, friend, and counselor. This teacher whom all know and admire stands out in the everyday life of the school. She is one to look up to, one to follow, and one to honor. No one could be more deserving of this school's high esteem and praise.

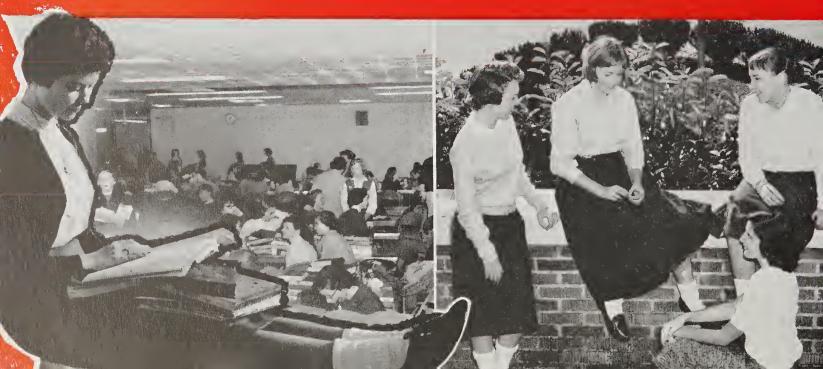

This is the story of New Hanover High School-its buildings, its classes, its noise, its study, its people. A high school which draws students from an entire county has reason enough in that single fact to be one of a mixed composition. Its areas must be wide, its veins, deep to reach the needs these students bring to its door. Indeed, N.H.H.S. is large—the largest senior high school in North Carolina. To find another student body of equal size one would have to go south as far as Columbus, Georgia; west as far as El Paso, Texas; and north as far as Arlington, Virginia.

However, size is secondary to scope at N.H.H.S.—quantity, to quality. A student may prepare for the various colleges and go with a fortification of foreign language, chemistry, physics, math, history, English grammar, or literature which will help him to reap well the harvest at hand. Another student may train for a specific vocation—stenography, metalworks, carpentry, to mention only a few—and begin work upon graduation with confidence in himself and admiration from others. Then a student may follow a liberal arts program—getting basic, sound information which will help him to live in a world with other people and to communicate with them effectively.

Dances are a popular school activity.

Freedom of education is one of the basic principles of America. Schools are constructed so that all Americans may receive this special privilege. However, it is fortunate that the leaders of this country, this state, and this nation realize that a complete education cannot be obtained from a textbook in a classroom. Society is a basis for human existence, and it is important that people take part in the activities which go on in the world today.

At New Hanover High School students show enthusiasm at social activities such as dances, teas, club parties, and athletic events. The R.O.T.C. Ball, the Library Tea, the May Dance, the Student Congress Tea, the Valentine Dance, the Honor Society Tea, the Twirp Dance, the class plays, and the Thespian Play are only a few of the many activities in which students may partake. Various organizations sponsor these functions, and so students are given the opportunity to plan as well as attend these affairs.

The majority of the social functions held on the campus take place in the Student Union. Not only on special occasions, but also at lunch, before school, and after school the Union provides excellent indoor recreational facilities.

It is seldom that this many beautiful girls are seen together.

Each year cadets, officers, and their girl friends eagerly anticipate the annual R.O.T.C. Ball. An excellent band, extraordinary decorations, a well-planned presentation ceremony, and plenty of refreshments help make this dance a success every year.

Coach Jap Davis supervises a strenuous exercise session in Brogden Hall.

The body must be built . . .

The growth of the mind is of vital importance under any circumstances, but a good mind is of little value in a weak body. Poor physical health brings about poor mental health. Everyone cannot be a star in the athletic field, but everyone can take part in frequent exercise in order to maintain good health. The Physical Education Department hopes that each student will take an active part in the physical education program. Scheduled classes are offered and intramural activities are also available. Regardless of weight, experience, or ability students are encouraged to go out for as many activities as possible.

The organized football, baseball, basketball, tennis, and golf teams at New Hanover High School have established outstanding records in the past and continue to do so.

along with the mind.

N.H.H.S. competes in the North Carolina AAA Conference in golf, baseball, basketball, and football. Many conference championships denote the school's excellent participation. Both a boys' and a girls' basketball tournament are held annually on the intramural level. Both boys and girls also have tennis teams with the boys playing interscholastic matches and the girls engaging in intramural match play.

Sportsmanship is an important aspect in any form of athletics, and for this reason good sportsmanship is emphasized in all activities. The Physical Education Department promotes good sportsmanship as should each and every student.

A spring day makes baseball a must.

Each student . . .

A versatile curriculum, an abundance of social affairs, a lovely campus, and a competent faculty enable New Hanover High School to retain a very high standing. However, it is the energetic and enthusiastic students who are responsible for the pleasant, active atmosphere which prevails. Whether providing lunch hour amusement for friends, assisting in one of the many jobs left up to students, or setting a good example for others to follow, each student must do his part to encourage a lively spirit.

With final exams and four years' work behind them, the seniors don the traditional caps and gowns for these, their final hours at N.H.H.S. This is the point where childhood must become a memory and adulthood a reality. This is Graduation Day, a day of separation, of ending, of beginning.

Graduation day is the reward for those who have worked diligently and studied hard in order to reach the peak of high school accomplishments. The road is a difficult one at times; but in this day of higher education, a high school diploma is of major importance.

Rev. M. C. Dunn encourages the departing seniors at the Baccalaureate.

Those who had the fortitude and the desire to complete their high school education will realize in the coming years what this education has meant to them. And, too, they will realize that this road, which seemed so difficult, was predecessor to many others, even more difficult.

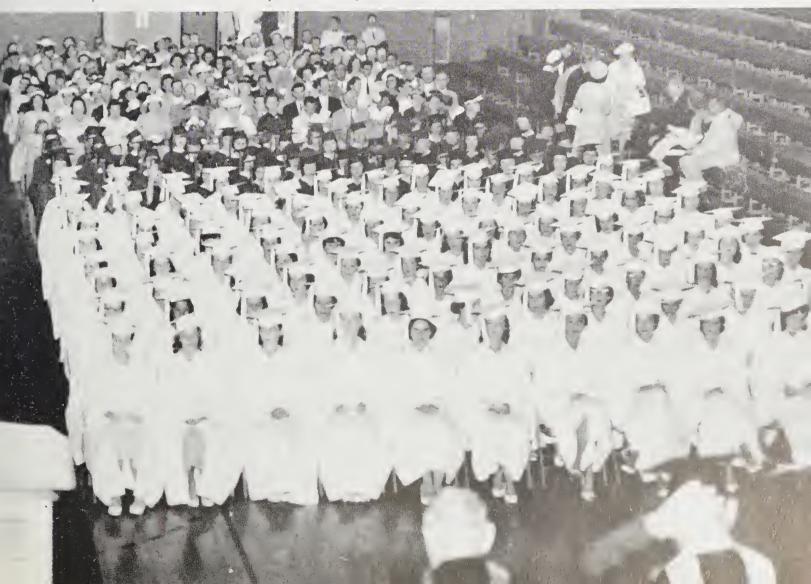

Here in these final moments begins the adult life of every senior. The paths and ways will differ, for the decisions are individually made in planning a life. But all have this in common: they have been prepared for whatever may follow this day. Their future and the future of mankind lies in these young hands.

New Hanover High School students seem to find amusement by many odd means. Tree climbing appears to be one of these unusual occupations. A more normal recreation is a coke break or even a quick ping-pong game. Both of the latter may be enjoyed in the well-equipped Student Union. But school is not all play, and the dismissal bell is a welcome sound.

New Hanover High School prepares for the future.

An important part of any student's life is the campus of his school. Since most of a student's social life as well as preparation for the future life takes place within a school, it is important for the campus to be as attractive as possible. New Hanover High School is proud of its campus and of the improvements and additions to be made.

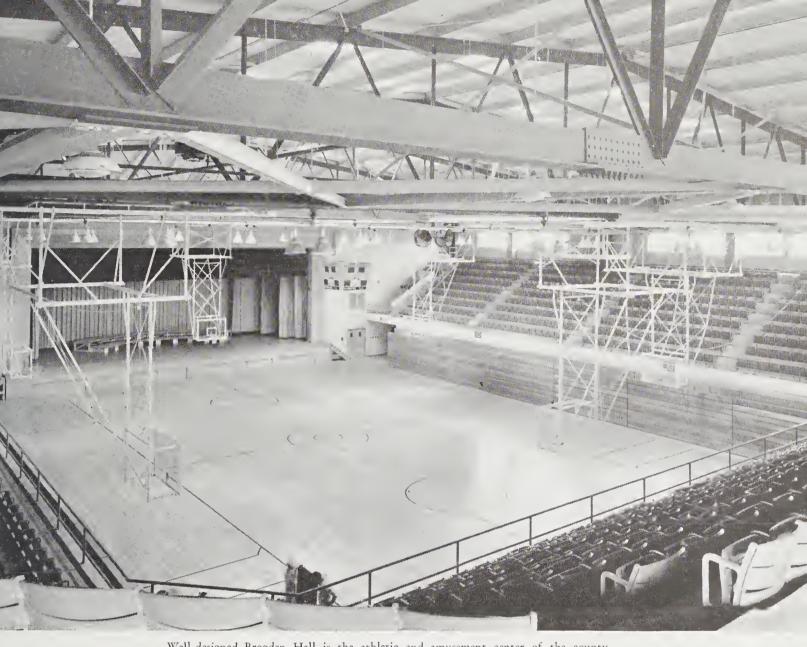

One of the most familiar places to students is the walk between the main building and Brogden Hall. Flowers and shrubs beautify the walk along with benches given by different classes in past years.

Just off the walk is Brogden Hall where many of New Hanover High School's athletic events take place. It is also given to the city for public use on certain occasions. This beautiful building greatly adds to the atmosphere around the school.

The Campus is the center . . .

The walk between the two main buildings is a lovely sight.

Well-designed Brogden Hall is the athletic and amusement center of the county.

of all student life.

Across the street from the Memorial Building is the site of the new Vocational Building which is to be built in the near future. This building will contain the new chemistry and physics laboratories along with band facilities. The carpentry classes, metal classes, and other vocational training courses will hold class in this new building. A show case on the front is to be used to display some of the work done in these classes.

The walk, Brogden Memorial Hall, and the new Vocational Building are just a few of the places comprising the campus in which the students and faculty of New Hanover High School take pride.

A touch of the modern provides eye appeal.

The Fairest . . .

The queen of the May is a newcomer in the court this year. Her lovely brown eyes are among her many assets, and her sweet smile is accentuated by adorable dimples. She is well-known around school by her many activities. She was chosen Battalion Sponsor of the R.O.T.C., Varsity Sweetheart, Social Marshal, Best Looking in the senior class. As assistant head cheerleader, she lends a certain sparkle to the varsity games. New Hanover High School is well-represented by its queen and hopes her reign will be a memorable one.

of the Fair . . .

Sally Christmas, a dark-haired beauty, was chosen Maid of Honor. Sally's neatness, wholesome good looks, and personality make her an asset to any group. Among her many activities, she has served as a Junior Class Senator, Senior Class Senator, Member of the House of Representatives, and Wildcat Staff member. She, too, is a newcomer to the May Court this year and is completing her high school career with a very high honor.

This year's May Court is superlative in every way. The girls are not only selected for beauty, but for well-rounded personalities as well. Almost every form of student life is represented through the activities and services of these girls. The sophomore attendants, Betty Key and Jo Ellen Crabtree, are both blondes — the only blondes in the court. Jo Ellen is one of the newly chosen sophomore Social Marshals, while Betty serves as a majorette for the N.H.H.S. Band.

The best leadership . . .

The administration is a vital part of every school. Teachers and students are important too, but without a competent administrative staff no organization is at best. New Hanover High School is fortunate to have such an outstanding administration. The many school problems which occur daily are handled with expert care. The principal makes the most important decisions, while the assistant principal offers a helping hand. The assistant principal also supervises Student Congress work and other campus activities.

the student realizes the value of science to mankind. The increased life span of the human race, the use of atomic energy, modern manufacturing methods, and all other conveniences of the present world are the direct result of scientific achievement. The rocket trials directed by Wernher Von Braun and the successful polio vaccine of Dr. Jonas Salk have led to a more progressive nation. Millions of Americans owe their comfortable and profitable lives to the experimentation carried on in modern scientific laboratories from coast to coast. The students in the classrooms of today must be the scientists of tomorrow. This is one of the reasons why scientific courses are required of every high school graduate. In this way everyone is given the opportunity to understand the basic fundamentals of science, and those especially gifted may select a career in this field.

One must think . . .

Mathematics is a science in itself, but it is not a separate branch of knowledge which can be applied only in certain instances. People in every walk of life and in every occupation depend on math, some directly, some indirectly. Math maintains households, runs businesses, speeds up industries, and works with science to put progress into America. Math not only provides a knowledge of numbers and calculations, but develops the ability to think, to reason, and to concentrate.

Math, as well as science, is fast becoming a subject of great potentiality to those looking to the future. The salaries received by mathematicians are high, and the hours are good.

to understand.

Under the instruction of experienced teachers, students progress from the fundamentals of mathematics as far into the higher planes of this subject as is desired. Projects enable these students to illustrate and put into practical use the knowledge they have gained in the classroom. Besides the training received in a field which may provide a main source of income in future years, the students also develop the ability to think and reason, a talent which so few possess.

The future of the world . . .

Since the beginning of time, when the earth first rotated on its axis, there have been continuous changes in both the inhabitants and the features of the earth. It is the duty of the social studies department to present these changes in an interesting and educational manner. Special trips during school time are taken for the benefit of all the students. One of the most interesting ones is taken to our nation's capital where the government buildings are visited.

Police Chief Padrick shows Ronnie Hardy a gas mask on Government Day of last year.

The students learn of the growth of democratic ideals and of the men who made this possible. The struggles of these great men and women are examined and compared with modern day situations. The efforts of past generations make the world what it is today. In the same manner the people of today will influence the world of tomorrow. Newspapers, class discussions, films, and extra reading are included in the course to promote interest and increase knowledge. knowledge is displayed by means of projects and bulletin boards for all to enjoy. Government students take part in the annual Government Day held each spring. Various city officials for a day are elected from the many students who take government. These elected officials range from the most important city officers to jailer. This unusual day provides an interesting climax to an enjoyable year.

The power to express oneself . . .

Those who serve in the capacities of English instructors have much to teach the students under them. The primary purpose of the English course is to strengthen and increase the grammatical ability of the student, not only in writing, but in speaking as well. The teacher improves and builds upon the foundation of grammar which has been gradually built along with the other knowledge of the student.

Individuality and personality expression are given vent through creative writing. Beginning with themes and working with gradient certainty through poetry and plays to short stories, the students are given opportunity to develop creative ability and talents of expression. Clubs and contests offer enticement and encouragement to aspiring young authors.

As well as learning expression with pen and ink, the students, often unconsciously, are aided in more effortless public speaking. Anyone who can hold his own before an audience of friends and classmates seldom has difficulty in speaking to other large groups. Qualities of certainty, exactness, and unity of thought and speech are the products of honest effort to become more adept at public speaking.

Literary treasures of the past and more modern works alike are placed at the disposal of the student at this time when his absorptive powers are at their height. Thus the student becomes familiar with the classics which have survived many decades of change and modernization and are still heading lists as favorite books; and at the same time, hours of enjoyment are reaped from reading present day literature. Appreciation of poetry is included with literature, and these poems leave lasting impressions.

At graduation, the student looks back with much appreciation at the teachers who have prepared him for further study or a place in the world.

Trained Industrialists . . .

Industrial training is important to the student who wishes to receive an understanding of a subject he may later choose as his vocation. In the industrial classes are gained the fundamentals of carpentry, architectural, metalworking, mechanical, and electrical fields. The student determines the extent of his progress in the field he has chosen.

In classes such as shop math, the students are faced with problems which are commonplace to men in various manual trades. The same tools which the tradesman uses are provided the students to enable them to solve mathematical problems. Through experimentation and demonstration, the basics of electricity are learned; and units such as motors, generators, and house wiring are studied and explained.

The mechanical drawing units range from lettering to blueprinting, and the course is climaxed with specialization in one field. Likewise, carpentry offers a course in which there is gradual progression from a knowledge of the simpler hand tools to the use of the more complicated machine tools. General metals provides a basis for a career in metalworking.

Designed primarily for those who wish to become machinists, the machine shop courses have much to offer the student entering any phase of mechanized industry. Students interested in any branch of aviation, be it navigation, meteorology, aerodynamics, or the aircraft engine itself, find that aeronautics may start them in a field which has great potentiality in this jet-age, this time of aerial explorations.

Other lands grow closer.

A little imagination and a desire to be able to decipher the strange words and phrases of other lands are the two main requirements of the foreign language student. Since the people, customs and traditions, and individual countries are studied as well as the languages, the student becomes familiar with neighbors to the south and east and with the conquerors and builders of the past. Through Latin the student discovers how a great part of the old world was settled and civilized by Caesar and the Romans, learns of the great store of literary treasures given us in Caesar's writings and Roman mythology, and sees the contributions to the world of an empire which has long ceased to exist. The beauties of Paris are discussed along with the story of Jeanne de Arc in French classes.

And in Spanish classes South American problems are discussed.

The foreign language classes have much to offer, both realization of a wish to be able to speak in a tongue other than English and an understanding of people of other nations which makes them no different from us.

The library offers relaxation through reading and service for those students especially interested in books. Each year more and more new materials are added to the library with topics varied according to the wide interests of the student body. The seniors find the library a treasure chest of knowledge when the time comes for research papers. The senior English classes go to the library during class period, and so all the students have the opportunity to use this information. Students may take library service for onehalf unit credit. This makes it possible for students to become better acquainted with the library and the many activities which go on there. These library assistants are also able to assist other students in the library and work at the check-out counter, thus furthering the ability to aid their fellow students in location of needed materials and save time with advice and a knowledge of library function.

Cooking and Sewing can be fun.

Following the old adage that a woman's place is in the home, many girls prepare in high school for a homemaking career. They work hard during the courses in sewing and cooking in order to learn to use the tools of practical housekeeping, from the handy needle to the versatile sewing machine, from the saucepan to the pressure cooker.

Good grooming accompanies their learning to sew, and many girls benefit from the good advice and grooming tips offered them. Child care is also an integral part of the home, and the girls taking home economics are given excellent opportunities in this training through observing in the nursery and assisting with the young children.

Mr. Doug W. Swink Drama and Speech Thespian Advisor Play Director

Pat Bryant, Leon Joyner, Barbara Singletary, and Martha Lee Begor learn the art of applying make-up as they participate in one of the many activities directed by Mr. Doug Swink, Head of the Dramatics Department. The group won the State Award at the Carolina Dramatics Play Festival at Chapel Hill for the best scenery design, best costuming, and best play production. This adds another outstanding feather in the achievement cap of New Hanover High School.

Highway safety saves lives.

The driver education course is designed to make the young people behind the wheel more safety conscious. Since young people lack the experience of older drivers, these students try to supplement the deficiency with precaution and obeyance of the traffic laws at all times. Besides learning to operate an automobile, young drivers must know the traffic laws and learn the unwritten rules of courtesy on the highway.

Mrs. Jean Tillitt Physical Education G. A. A.'s

Exercise is a healthy pasttime.

The physical development of a person is as important as his mental growth. The Physical Education department seeks to develop the coordination, endurance, and skills of the students through well-organized play. Basketball, tennis, volleyball, and tumbling training are not all the student receives during the course of a year. The instructor also stresses the emotional development of the student in relation to himself and others. First aid is taught so that the students will be well-equipped to handle any situation that may arise requiring this knowledge.

The importance of good sportsmanship is impressed upon the student. He learns to be a good loser as well as a good winner because it is not the winning of the game, but the way in which it is played that makes it enjoyable.

Football players don their uniforms in preparation for a practice session.

Mr. Alton Wright Distributive Education DE Coordinator DE Club

Barbara Sneeden, an able DE student, is busily at work.

There is no substitute for experience.

Distributive Education students are acquainted with the many job opportunities available in the selling field. In the present economy system there are unlimited number of jobs in salesmanship. Students enrolled in a DE course are given the opportunity to gain business experience and complete a high school education at the same time. This on-the-job training program allows the student to spend approximately twenty hours a week gaining actual business experience. Not only do the students receive an hourly wage, but also preparation for the future.

Diversified Occupations students receive training by working in an industrial concern at any of a large group of jobs. Both juniors and seniors are allowed to participate in this program which enables them to earn a small salary as a great deal of valuable information is learned.

Capable assistants are . . .

Some of the busiest members of the high school are the capable assistants who are always ready to lend a helping hand. Under the direction of Mrs. Lodor, dietitian, the cafeteria and union staffs prepare tasty, well-balanced meals for the students and faculty. The foods range from hot dogs and french fries in the Student Union to complete meals in the cafeteria. When students are hurt or sick, Mrs. Brinson, the school nurse, is the person to see. The infirmary is a small scale hospital to take care of most any complaint which arises. Mrs. Jones, the office clerk, willingly gives information about lost books, lost articles, or school activities. Mrs. Mitchell not only acts as an efficient secretary to the principal, but also shares her knowledge of office practices and problems.

Mrs. Jeanene Jones Clerk

Mrs. Geneva S. Mitchell Secretary

The Student Union supplies almost any form of refreshment.

Adults drive many of the school buses.

There is always an appealing display of food in the cafeteria.

The jack-of-all-trades at New Hanover High School is Mr. Sullivan, the custodian. Mr. Sullivan, along with his assistants, makes certain that the halls and classrooms are clean, that the radiators are working, and that many necessities at the school are cared for.

Without the cafeteria and Student Union help to prepare the meals, the school could not get along. These people are always on hand when needed to clean up or fix the food.

Another group of assistants at New Hanover High School is the bus drivers. Many students who live in rural districts depend on the bus drivers for transportation to school.

SENIORS

Coming down the Senior Steps are the class officers: Dorothy Murray, Secretary; Edgar Garrabrant, President; and Nancy Minton, Vice-President.

That sophomore year — will the Seniors ever forget those first classes and those feeble, yet hopeful attempts to master new subjects, their first high school examination week, those hidden classrooms, the hundreds of strange faces, the maze of corridors and stairs, or their first twirp dance! Somehow they survived the newness of it; for they had each other, and they had made close friends.

Summer passed too quickly, and they were back for a second year at N.H.H.S., full of determination and resolutions and short cuts. They were now in the swing of studying and beginning to see some connection between courses. Feeling very experienced, they looked upon the confusion and uncertainty of the shy sophomores with delight. Soon they presented their first class play, cheered their team to victory, and sponsored a wonderful Junior-Senior Prom. Excitement and enthusiasm ran high as they were measured for their class rings, for they were soon to be real seniors. As the class of '59, one year didn't seem far away.

Then finally that glorious day arrived one fall, and the new seniors proudly paraded up the senior steps that first day. At last they had many wonderful privileges which they somehow never found time to use. School at N.H.H.S. had become more than interesting as they practically lived in the libraries working on research themes. How they remember those endless lines of Chaucer and Shakespeare and that solid geometry that seemed to be taught in Greek! They studied hard, but it was well worth the time as they applied to colleges and took entrance examinations.

Then spring arrived and invitations were ordered, measurements were made for caps and gowns, final preparations were being made for future jobs and colleges, and many of the seniors got the exciting news that that big scholarship was theirs. As the end of their high school careers approached, they saw their last play, their last school dance, attended those last minute parties, and signed an endless number of Hanoverians. Final examinations came too quickly and then they had a short time to wander the halls of N.H.H.S., remembering the three glorious years spent there. At last graduation was upon them. Their hearts pounding, they grasped those diplomas tightly. Now back down those old steps of N.H.H.S. and out into a new world they go, full of ambition and zeal,

JUNIORS

The students who now have a year of hard work behind them proudly become upperclassmen. At last they are not looked down upon as confused sophomores, but receive their chance to be regarded as a more experienced class. Upon returning, the students recognize familiar faces of the year before and notice that some have been replaced by new members. As they attend their various classes, they make more friends and eventually become a unified class - the Junior Class of 1959. Now an important part of New Hanover High School, they take a greater interest in the school activities. Football games are well attended, whether the Wildcats play at home or out of town. The dances are social highlights of the year, and all of the Juniors try to attend and help plan them.

Many of the boys return for their second year in R.O.T.C. All of them are proud of their uniforms and can be seen polishing their brass on Monday and Friday. When the R.O.T.C. Ball is given, many rules of the corps are forgotten as they dance in their social attire.

Students participate in the musical events, school plays, and class elections, all interesting extracurricula activities. The first play of the year, "Meet Me In St. Louis," has many Juniors helping present it.

The Juniors also become more conscious of the different clubs; many become officers or important members. Although these students play a major role in the social life at N.H.H.S., they learn to accept their more advanced responsibilities and begin planning their careers. Most of the Juniors become acquainted with chemistry formulas, geometric theorys, American authors, and Spanish, French, and Roman customs in their college preparatory courses. Shorthand, typing, and other similar subjects are mastered by students who plan to enter the commercial field. In each course the Juniors apply themselves to their work, recognize the teachers as helpers and friends, and make more accomplishments as they continue their education; for class rings, senior steps, and the number one spot are becoming much closer.

SOPHOMORES

The first day at N.H.H.S. is a trying experience for every Sophomore. Most of the faces seen by the Sophomore are strange or at best only familiar. After minutes which seem like hours of bedlam and confusion, the mystified Sophomore finally manages to find his way up the wrong steps, through the wrong hall, on the wrong floor, and into the wrong homeroom. A friendly Junior sets the poor befuddled Sophomore on the right track, but he still manages to get even farther away from his homeroom. He finally arrives, out of breath from running, and afraid that he'll be late on the first day of school. He catches his breath in an empty seat and just begins to realize that he is a real, honest-to-goodness Sophomore! However, it takes him a while to keep from going to fourth period Latin at second period.

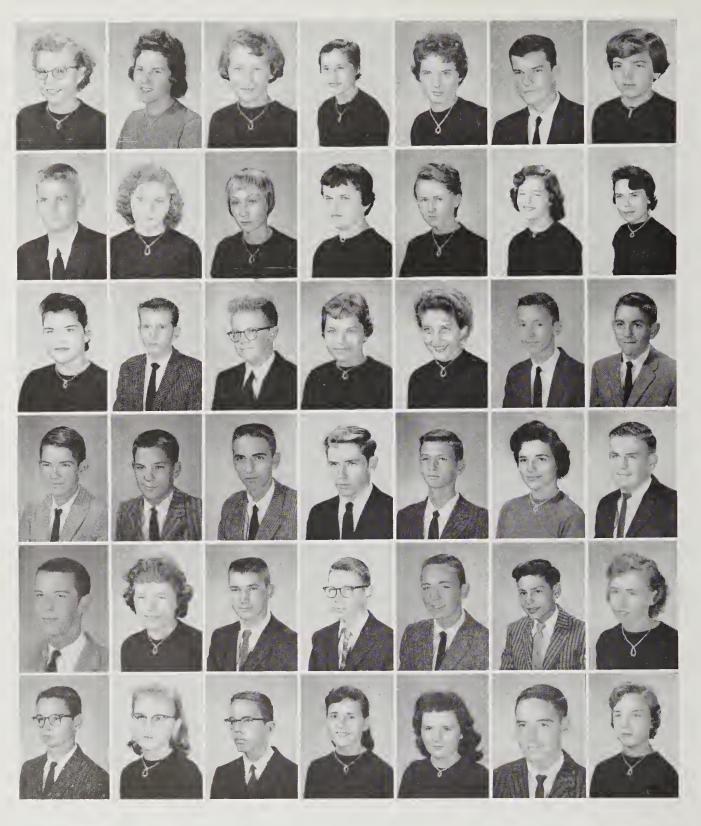

Imagine, being one of more than one thousand Sophomores who make up the largest part of the student body at N.H.H.S., which is the largest high school in North Carolina.

After a meeting with the leaders of N.H.H.S., where he learns what is expected of him, the Sophomore starts the routine of school again, but this year it's special; he's a part of N.H.H.S.!

The confusion at the first R.O.T.C. assembly is enough to warm the heart of any old soldier! All the boys taking R.O.T.C. for the first time gain the excitement of having uniforms, either too big or too small, of being shouted at by friends who are now his betters, and of trying to march through a simple drill with two right feet. He realizes that he is almost a soldier and looks forward to the R.O.T.C. Ball.

The highlights of the school year are many, and the overwhelmed Sophomore tries to take most of them in. First are the football games, then the Football Finals Dance, and next comes the first dance-date of the Sophomore, the Twirp Dance, which is sponsored by the Sophomore class. This is the time when the girl makes the date, opens the door, and pays the bill. There the Sophomore is really at home! Then come the many exciting basketball games, the R.O.T.C. Ball, the Valentine Dance, baseball season, and finally the last dance of the year, the May Dance. Exams are the first threat to the Sophomore's security at N.H.H.S.; but if he studies hard, he usually stays around for a second semester and another year. As the final exams are left behind and the year's end draws nigh, a more enlightened and more happy Sophomore looks back on a year full of homework, dances, dates, fun, excitement, and all the things which fill the calendar of a school year at N.H.H.S. He hopefully looks forward to becoming a Junior; just one more step up the ladder of success and his graduation from N.H.H.S. in 1961.

Officers are elected by the people.

The Student Government of New Hanover High School, organized to foster a true democratic spirit, promote closer student-faculty cooperation, and create a more effective plan of student government, is patterned after the form of our national government.

Our Student Congress is composed of several divisions: the Senate, House of Representatives, Executive Council, Judges, Judicial Marshals, Coordinating Committee, and Social Marshals.

Charlie Baggett, as President of the Student Body, has done his job well, performing his duties capably and conscientiously. Before being elected to this office, Charlie served a year as a Social Marshal. Our Vice-President, Ann Bergen, has also filled her position well. Besides presiding over the House of Representatives, Ann is responsible for the devotional presented at the beginning of each cabinet meeting. Nancy Stovall has very capably carried out her duties as Secretary of the Student Body.

Each spring near the close of the school year the Sophomore and Junior classes elect their senators for the next school term. The following fall, homeroom representatives and new Sophomore senators are elected. These representatives, together with the Coordinating Committee and Executive Committee, make up the legislative branch of the Student Government.

The Judicial Department, consisting of the Judges and the Judicial Marshals, has as its job the enforcement of laws and rules passed by the Student Congress.

Third row: Buck O'Shields, Edgar Garrabrant, Cam Davis, Alan Hale, Robert McGee.

Acting as a board of advisors for the Student Government, the Executive Council meets every week to discuss acts and bills that have been brought up before the House of Representatives and the Senate. Headed by the President of the Student Body, the committee is made up of the Vice-President of the Student Body, the Secretary of the Student Body, the President of the Senate, the Chairman of the Coordinating Committee, and several other members of the cabinet. Mrs. Estelle LeGwin and Miss Lena Taylor are advisors.

Committees act for the people.

One of the most important groups in the Student Congress is the Coordinating Committee. The purpose of this committee is to review bills started in one branch before they go on to the other branch. This is to make sure that they are stated correctly and are worth the attention of the other branch. Made up of two members from the House of Representatives, two members from the Senate, and one member appointed by the President, this committee meets only when a bill has been brought up in either the House of Representatives or the Senate.

OFFICERS OF THE SENATE Seated: Tim Chappell, Molly Cooper, Carol Booth. Standing: Helen Kelly, Mickie Croom, Judy Butler.

The role that the Senate plays in the Student Congress makes it a very vital part of the school. Consisting of Sophomore, Junior, and Senior class Presidents and six Senators from each class the Senate carries out many important functions of N.H.H.S. The Senate has the power to formulate all bills for the general welfare of the student body, to impeach any member of the Student Congress except its own members, and to originate finance bills.

Only the outgoing Senate has the power to confirm the appointment of cabinet officers prior to the installation of new Student Congress officers.

Senators strive to make the best . . .

Officers for the Senate are elected at the first meeting: President, President Pro Tempore, Secretary, Chaplain, Parliamentarian, Sergeant-at-Arms; and their work begins. The Senate sets up committees for the beautification of grounds, and for welfare, hospitality, and coordination of our student body. With these committees, New Hanover

High School is able to have opportunities for service during Thanksgiving and Christmas, social activities, and a well organized student union.

Senatorial elections are held in April and October for upperclassmen and Sophomores respectively, and those who are chosen make a large contribution to New Hanover High School.

Each year every homeroom elects one person with good grades who is willing to serve in the House of Representatives. To do this, they must give up one study hall twice a month. The Vice-President of each class and the Vice-President of the Student Body are included in the House. With Ann Bergen serving as speaker of the House, this group originates bills concerning the welfare of the school with the exception of the finance bills. At the first meeting of the school year, the members of the House elect their officers, and these officers are installed at the second meeting of the laws for our system.

school year. There are also various committees which are appointed by the Vice-President of the Student Body. Some of these committees are as follows: Premises, Coordinating, Welfare, Judiciary, and Social. These committees serve throughout the year. The Clerk of the House of Representatives records the minutes of each meeting. These minutes are made into reports and distributed to the representatives from each homeroom. The Homeroom Representatives then inform their homerooms of the business carried on in the House. Through this system, every member of the Student Body can stay informed of the activities of the House.

The Student Court, consisting of three seniors, two juniors, and one sophomore, comprises one branch of the Judicial Department of the Student Government. These Judges are elected by a joint session of the House of Representatives and the Senate shortly after the opening of school.

With Mr. Daniel Todd as advisor, the Judges try all students reported by Judicial Marshals for having broken any of our school's laws. They are also vested with the power to try members of the Senate.

A Chief Justice, who acts as chairman when the Court is in session, is elected from among the senior members by the Court. He has no voting power except in case of a tie.

Court is held every Tuesday after school in room 121, the Student Congress room. As Court convenes, all present repeat the flag pledge, after which the proceedings get underway. Presiding over the Court is Frank Furr, present Chief Justice. In the event of his absence, Carter Mebane, the Assistant Chief Justice, will wield the gavel.

As a case begins, the Prosecuting Attorney for the Student Court reads the offense, after which the defendant and the Marshal explain their respective sides of the case. After hearing both sides of the case, the judges retire from the room to reach the verdict. A simple majority vote of the Court decides whether or not the defendant is guilty. When the Judges re-enter the room, Helen Taylor, Court Clerk gives the decision to the Chief Judge, who then announces it to the defendant. The Chief Judge has the power to increase or decrease the punishment in the case that the defendant is convicted, if he believes it necessary. Punishment is usually in the form of eighth or ninth periods to be served within a given time.

Judicial Marshals uphold regulations.

way around and has seen how helpful the Judicial Marshals at N.H.H.S. can be. Then again, others have had contacts with Judicial Marshals which were not quite so pleasant, for the Judicial Marshals are authorized to issue tickets requiring the receiver's presence at the next session of Student Court, if any school rules have been broken.

Marshals are picked from volunteers, for the job by the Chief Judicial Marshal, Craig Ellís, and by the Judiciary Committee of the House and Senate. The Chief Marshal acts as the prosecuting attorney when Student Court is in session.

Wearing their distinctive orange and black armbands, Marshals can be seen between periods at their posts at every stairway and street crossing on the campus. In order to be able to get to their posts soon enough to supervise traffic flow during each changing of classes and to remain there the whole time, they are allowed to leave class a few minutes before the bell and to go to their next class a few minutes after the bell for class to begin.

The advisor for this essential group is Mr. Daniel Todd.

Lending an atmosphere of grace and charm to all the school social activities, the Social Marshals of New Hanover High School lead a full life during the school year. The Marshals' first responsibility is to help each new school year get off to a good start by assisting with Orientation Day for the sophemores. As their major duty on this day, they are seen helping with refreshments served in the Student Union. The parents of students at New Hanover High are especially grateful for the help rendered them at the first Parent-Student-Teacher meeting. The Marshals capably direct anyone uncertain of his course, and again help with the serving of refreshments.

Whether it be a school play, concert, or operetta, the Marshals will be found collecting tickets, distributing programs, and ushering for the convenience of those who come to observe.

As the Christmas season opens, the Social Marshals provide a festive spirit by putting up the traditional Christmas tree in the main lobby. With the help of the Secretary of the Student Union, they also decorate a tree set up in the Student Union.

To climax their activities at the end of the year, the Social Marshals sponsor the annual May Dance. This is the time at which the chosen May Queen and her court are presented to all the student body; therefore, it is a highly regarded and anticipated event. Thus, they close a year full of fun and responsibilities until the next fall when new Social Marshals, are elected at a joint meeting of the House of Representatives and the Senate.

Published annually, the N.H.H.S. Telephone Directory includes the name, address, homeroom number, class, and telephone number of every student and each faculty member in the high school. Publication of the directory is one of the projects of the Student Congress. Every student finds that the directory is handy whether it be for making a call for that important date, forgotten assignment, or making out a Christmas card list. The list of homeroom numbers makes it quick and easy for teachers to find a student's homeroom.

Many hours of hard work and concentration go into making this publication possible. This year the faculty advisor for the committee was Mrs. Irene Turner, whose help and advice was welcomed by all those who worked on the directory. The co-chairmen were Leah Rose Williams and Donna Hinnant.

The typists, headed by Leah Rose, gave up many study halls and afternoons getting the names ready to be sent to the printer. Then the proofreaders, headed by Donna, began their job. They were to correct any mistakes that might have been made by the typists or the printer. The faithful advertising and sales staff played its part in putting out the directory. Their untiring efforts to sell ads and subscriptions made the project a success.

The Orange and Black Handbook, published annually by the Handbook committee, is a key to life at N.H.H.S. On Orientation Day the Handbook is distributed to the Sophomores who find it indispensable during their first year at N.H.H.S.

Betty Black, committee chairman, and her committee are to be commended on the job they did this year. With its vital information and striking cover, the book is not only very useful, but quite attractive.

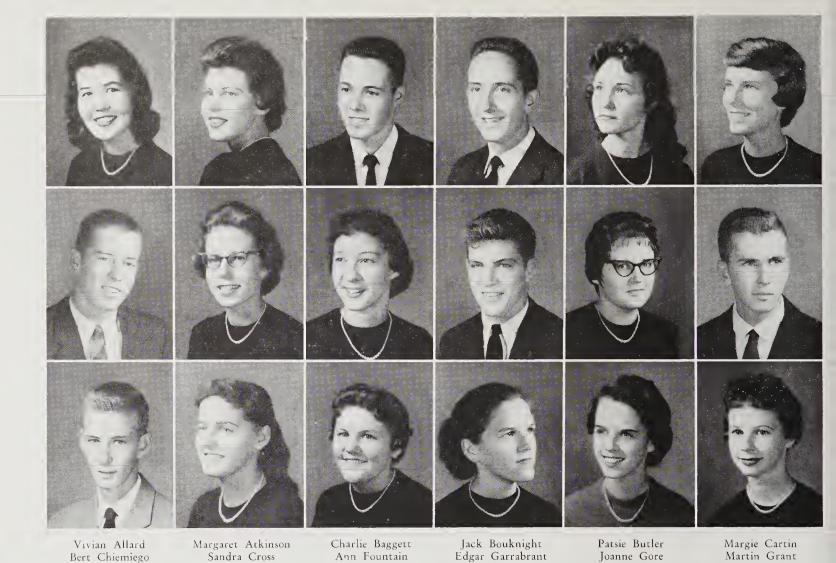

The Handbook contains the rules and regulations of our school and the constitution adopted by our Student Body. It also includes an N.H.H.S. faculty directory, the 1958-59 school calendar, descriptions of school clubs and organizations, Student Congress officers, and some of the Wildcat cheers.

Although the Orange and Black Handbook is of particular importance to students during their first year in high school, its value and use do not decrease during the Junior and Senior years. Despite the fact that upperclassmen are familiar with most school regulations, they often find it necessary to refer to their Handbook.

student must rank in the upper three per cent of his class as a junior or the upper six per cent of his class as a senior. A student's character is approved by the faculty committee after it has been considered by a faculty survey and by the National Honor Society members. His leadership and service are determined by activity point requirements.

Tense moments of anxious waiting and hoping mark the induction ceremony for new members. The ceremony is held each fall for seniors and again the following spring for juniors. Tapping of the new Honor Society members is one of the most exciting programs of the school year. Students watching and students participating in the ceremony are just as excited as those hoping to be tapped, because the names of the new members are kept secret until the last minute.

Each year the Honor Society sponsors an Honor Roll Tea at the end of first semester. All honor roll students receive a written invitation to attend this tea. The club also sponsors a Faculty Day Tea which is carried out in the same manner. The annual Honor Society Talent Show is an event anticipated by all students in the high school. Each spring the local chapter sends delegates to the State Convention.

guide homerooms skillfully.

From the time of their election at the beginning of the year until the last day of school, the homeroom chairmen diligently attend their duties. These students are often called upon to take time out from their own work to do various jobs in the homerooms. Among these duties are selling copies of The Wildcat and taking up contributions for charities such as the Thanksgiving Welfare Offering, the Christmas collection for needy families, and the Junior Red Cross Fund. They are also responsible for making arrangements to provide a morning devotional to be held in the homeroom at the beginning of homeroom period. An additional duty of chairmen of Senior homerooms is the taking of orders for calling cards for the use of the future graduates. They prove to be a great help to the teachers and also to their classmates throughout the school by aiding them in anything that might need to be done around the room. All in all, the homeroom chairman is a very important part of a smoothly functioning homeroom.

Apply your talents in Arts and Crafts.

Have you noticed the attractive bulletin boards and posters displayed throughout the halls of N.H.H.S.? These are some of the attractive creations of the Arts and Crafts Club. During the year the members of the club and officers, Joanne Gore, President; Lois Coston and Harry Brooks, Vice-Presidents; and Dianna Johnson, Secretary-

Treasurer; work with their advisor, Miss Lossen, to make these crafts possible. This club offers to those who are taking art a chance to apply themselves; and also to the students who are not taking art, it gives an interesting hobby. One of the club's yearly projects is sending art work to the children in the hospital at Christmas.

Any interested student may become a member, and the members are soon taught operation, care, and maintenance of various forms of film projectors, opaque projectors, arc-light projectors, tape recorders, record players, public address systems, spotlights, and floodlights. It is these students who are usually responsible for showing classroom movies and who provide entertainment on rainy days by showing films in the auditorium.

Government secures the blessings of liberty.

The Government Club of New Hanover High School is an active club with many goals and ideals. Under the direction of Miss Eleanor Tapp, the members try to obtain a clearer knowledge and understanding of a democratic government. When this has been achieved, members participate in the "I Speak for Democracy" contest sponsored by the local Junior Chamber of Commerce. Later on in the year, students are elected to city and county offices by their classmates and carry out what is known as Student Government Day. This is the day when the youth of today take over and run the government in Wilmington for a day in preparation for becoming the "adult of tomorrow."

"Be ye doers of the Word."

"I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me" is the motto of the Bible Club of New Hanover High School. Under the careful guidance of Miss Ruth Spence and the officers: Joe Rhodes, President; Danny Cartin, Vice-President; Jennifer Roach, Secretary-Treasurer; and Isabel Autry and Donna Hinnant, Co-Chairmen of Spiritual Enrichment Committee, the club members carry out many worthwhile and successful projects during the year. The most important of these is daily morning devotions at Trinity Methodist Church. All students are invited to attend these devotions. The club strives to promote Christian living among the students and to develop Christian leadership among its members. The club seeks to accomplish this through interesting programs, through Christian service activities such as gifts of food, clothing, and toys to needy families, and through visiting the aged. All students, no matter what their religious convictions, are invited to join the organization.

They work diligently in their training.

"To promote on-the-job training in office work" is the purpose of Cooperative Office Training Practice. Under the direction of Mrs. Bernice Bjonerud, the members of this club develop a more wholesome attitude toward work, choose the vocation for which they are best suited, and also learn to promote better public relations. Two of the most important yearly activities are the job experiences in business offices of the community and the Employer-Employee Banquet. The training received enables these learners to perform successfully the work of an initial position in business and, through such performance, to rise to positions of greater responsibilities and opportunities.

Library Assistants insure an efficient library.

This organization is open to the students interested in later becoming librarians. These assistants, under the direction of their advisors, Miss Martha Cromartie and Miss Fannie O'Keef, perform the various duties of library work. Some of their most important jobs are collecting book fees, arranging the very attractive bulletin boards and library showcase, checking books in and out, replacing returned books on the shelves, and planning and preparing for the annual library tea. With their many other activities, these workers are never too busy to help students to find the information needed to write that important theme or book report that has been neglected to the very last minute. Performing these duties, the library assistants are one of the most helpful clubs in the school.

The Thespians dramatize life, love and happiness.

The curtain rose slowly, and another successful season for the Thespians of Hanover was underway. Opening the year was the production of the three-act comedy, "Meet Me in St. Louis." The Thespians of Hanover is one of the largest and most active clubs in New Hanover High School.

Leading the Thespians in their activities for 1958-59 are the officers: Rita Sapp, Anne Metts, Isabel Autry, and Margaret Swart. Not pictured: Mary Marshall, President.

This dramatics club is truly an organization where talent is born and success is created. Members develop a great interest in and a deep love for the theater through enthusiastic participation and keen observation. Under the capable direction of Mr. Douglas Swink, the members work diligently all year to learn the fundamentals of producing a drama as well as those of acting. Make-up for the cast, props for the production, and widespread publicity go into the making of a play. Then as the curtains close and the audience is enthusiastically applauding, the cast, the make-up artists, the scenery painters, the publicity committee, and the ticket salesmen, give a happy sigh as the Thespians have completed successfully another major production.

Membership in the organization is open to all interested students who are able to prove their ability by giving a dramatic reading before the group. The officers of the club for the year 1958-59 were Mary Marshall, President; Isabel Autry, Vice-President; Ann Metts, Recording Secretary; Rita Sapp, Corresponding Secretary; and Margaret Swart, Treasurer.

find himself doing various odd jobs throughout the year; although some of the jobs are small, they are necessary parts of each production. Here we have recorded some of the more enjoyable and memorable events of the year.

"Meet Me in St. Louis," a delightful three-act comedy, was presented by the Thespians of Hanover on November 1, 1958. The performance opened with a song and dance routine by the chorus, which also entertained between acts.

The story was set in St. Louis at the turn of the century and concerned a family's prospective move to New York. Objecting to this moving, the four children decided to dissuade their father's boss from putting him in the more responsible position which would move them to New York; then the fun started. After a trolley's being derailed, bags of water being dropped on people, and much confusion being created, the boss finally decided that the father's place was really in St. Louis.

The play was quite a success, and the proceeds from the show were used to send a few club members to Chapel Hill for the presentation of a play for the annual Drama Festival.

The highest goal to be reached in vocal music at New Hanover High School is membership in the Hanover Singers. This active organization is under the capable direction of Mr. Loyd Hudson. Hard work in the way of rehearsals every morning at homeroom period, long hours of striving to perfect an operetta, and a continuous list of concerts confront the members of Hanover Singers. To meet the requirements for membership, one must carry out a sole tryout in which he must demonstrate his skill in reading music by sight. He must also have the ability to carry not only his own part, but any other part that he is asked to sing. Therefore, it is the musically elite who pass this test and are awarded membership in the Hanover Singers.

The Hanover Singers have a full calendar of events from September through May of each school year. It can never be said that they are an inactive group, for they work constantly on concert after concert. Frequently in demand for performances for the civic clubs of Wilmington, the Hanover Singers devote quite a bit of their time to these organizations. During special seasons of the year, the Hanover Singers enhance the school's activities by singing for the student body at assemblies. Immediately after Christmas, they begin work on their annual operetta, and prepare to entertain the entire city of Wilmington. As this is the biggest undertaking of the year, the group works up their performance to near perfection. Among other things, the Hanover Singers give several out-of-town concerts; and they strive from the beginning of the year to prepare their skills for the State Choral Festival in Greensboro, North Carolina. They also attend the District Contest which is held this year in Lumberton, North Carolina. Thus anyone can see that this superior musical group of singers has many different types of concerts, and they are well known throughout a wide area for their laudable performances.

the Mixed Chorus entertains all.

The music department of New Hanover High School consists of three groups, two of which are the Girls' Glee Club and the Mixed Chorus. A girl who enters the Mixed Chorus must first have gone through at least a year of training in the Girls' Glee Club. Tryouts are held for boys. The Girls' Glee Club participates in the Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter programs of the school, and gives valuable training in group singing. After receiving the benefits of membership in the Girls' Glee Club, one may try out for a place in the Mixed Chorus. The director of the music department, Mr. Loyd Hudson, makes these selections.

This is the stepping stone to the Hanover Singers, for Mr. Hudson chooses the singers from the Mixed Chorus.

Quite frequently during the year the junior high schools are entertained by performances given by the Mixed Chorus. This group gives a concert of seasonal music the day before Thanksgiying holidays to the student body and adds a valuable contribution to the annual Christmas concert given by the entire Vocal Music Department.

To hear and see the excellent arrangements, music, and spirit of the Mixed Chorus is to remember a well-presented program.

Editor Alan Hale and Business Manager Rosslyn Troth discuss and make plans concerning the Hanoverian budget.

Beginning their work during the summer vacation, the Hanoverian Staff works all first semester to compile and produce the yearbook of New Hanover High School, the Hanoverian.

Much more work goes into the publication of our annual than meets the eye. First, before school is in session at the beginning of the year, the sale of ads is the job of every staff member. Soliciting all of Wilmington and the surrounding beaches, the Hanoverian staff works diligently to raise funds for the expensive process of publishing the Hanoverian.

When this sale of ads is brought to a close, the sale of subscriptions begins; and each student in New Hanover High School is given the opportunity of securing a yearbook. During this time, the staff editors working out their respective sections are having club pictures, sports pictures, activity pictures, and individual pictures taken for use in the Hanoverian. All the staff members assist in the taking and assembling of these many pictures.

To reward the Hanoverian staff of the 1957-58 yearbook, the Columbia Scholastic Press Association of Colleges and Universities awarded us a first place prize for the annual. This is a very high honor and proof of the hard work put forth in the publication.

After the pictures are taken, the staff members identify and arrange them in the order in which they are to be printed. Then a layout of each page, along with copy, is completed and given to the proper authorities. Thus, some of the work that produces our Hanoverian is complete.

The Sports Editor, Bonnie Sullivan, and her assistant, Eddie Anderson, go over some of the many details that go into their section.

a year at N. H. H. S.

The election of the editor and business manager of the next year's annual is held at the end of first semester by the Hanoverian staff members. Since everyone who works on the staff must be in the top third of his class, the job of choosing the one best qualified is a hard one.

Continually striving to work out new and original ideas, the members of the Hanoverian staff have turned out the biggest annual of the school's history this year. So progress is made even in school publications; and when the spring arrives, so also will the Hanoverian arrive — revealing all the top secrets of color and theme the staff members have been hiding during the winter months.

Mr. Thomas C. McCall, Chief Advisor; Mrs. Pender Durham, Business Advisor; and Miss Margaret Head, Activities Advisor, are always willing to lend each staff member a helping hand or the most-needed advice.

Coach Jap Davis—His spirit and drive are as essential as his lessons in sportsmanship.

Coach Buck Hardee—Guiding light of the "B" team and developer of future Wildcat potential.

Coach Leon Brogden—Experience, ability, and character make him an indispensable part of the coaching staff.

Behind every superior team are superior coaches, and New Hanover High School boasts five of the best in the state. Head Coach Leon Brogden has become, by his years of experience and by his natural ability, one of the most distinguished coaches in the state. Never failing yet to produce a team which is always a threat and usually victorious, he is an invaluable asset to NHHS. Coach Jap Davis ranks beneath Brogden only in title. His "drive" and "push" have instilled in all our athletes the desire to win, and his stress of fair play teaches another useful lesson. Coaches Brogden and Davis handle the varsity football, basketball, and baseball teams together, and Davis also coaches the golf and tennis teams. Coaches Buck Hardee, Calvin Lane, and Fred Williams handle the NHHS "B" squads and the junior varsity teams. Coach Hardee is well known for his pep and spirit and has done much to improve the teams in his charge. Coach Lane has turned in another fine year and is fast becoming an indispensable member of the coaching staff. New to the staff this year is Coach Fred Williams who has done a very commendable job, and who, we hope, will become a permanent member of NHHS.

A powerful football team is gridiron dynamite.

Co-Captain David Ward—tall, muscular, hard-hitting end.

To the sounds of band music and the shouts of a wildly enthusiastic crowd, the Wildcats of New Hanover High School pounded on the field to begin the 1958 season. Many hours of grueling practice in a hot summer sun had built the Wildcats into a powerful unit, capable of holding its own against any foe.

The first game of the season pitted the Wildcats against the Tigers of Conway, South Carolina. True to tradition, the Wildcats began action with a bang racking up four touchdowns and two extra points by the fourth quarter against Conway's one touchdown. Already showing signs of a potent air arm, Leon Brogden, Jr., prepared the way for three of the 'Cat touchdowns with his fine passing. Jackie Theodore, strong, scrappy Wildcat halfback, went over for two of the touchdowns; senior Freddie Ray plunged over for one; and junior Jerry Spivey added the other marker. The talented toe of big Mac Williams kicked the two extra points for the Wilmington team. Despite a bright beginning, the 'Cats failed to shine in the fourth quarter when a faltering defense gave the Conway squad three straight touchdowns. Two extra points tied the game and what had seemed like an easy Wilmington victory ended in a deadlock contest, 26-26.

In a second non-conference tilt, the Wildcats met Reynolds High of Winston-Salem, a home game attended by 4,000 fans.

The presence of such a crowd of backers failed however to give the Wildcats enough spirit and confidence, and the Winston-Salem squad added its third straight victory, the final score being 28-12. The superb passing of Leon Brogden was again responsible for the two Wildcat touchdowns, which were carried over by Theodore and Ray. Excellent receiving on the part of Spivey and end Larry Edens also contributed much.

After a tie and a defeat, a group of determined boys traveled to Rocky Mount where they gave a superb performance, and came home with a 33-14 triumph. Again Brogden starred in the passing column. Brilliant work was contributed in this first conference game by Don Edens and Eddie Buck, two stalwart boys of good size and strength. Big Jim Herring also showed himself to be quite a bruiser.

As the Wildcats met Raleigh in their second conference clash, excitement ran high. Both teams were hungry for a victory, and so the game was one of tension from the opening kickoff to the final minutes of play. Failure to make the extra point, a Wilmington weakness all season, caused the Wildcats to end up low-man in this game. A final score of 7-6 was heart-breaking and yet, the fine defensive and offensive job by the 'Cats helped to brighten things somewhat.

Traveling to Greensboro, the Wildcats next met the Whirlies of Senior High School in a non-conference tilt. A fine showing was contributed by both teams for neither was able to stop the other. However, a crushing ground attack by the Whirlies succeeded in holding the Wildcats to three touchdowns while the Whirlies squeezed out four. Approaching the phenomenal, quarterback Leon Brogden stole the show with a superb passing performance, hitting on 15 out of 19 attempts. The 'Cats also scored every time in possession but once. Only by a tremendous ground game did the Whirlies manage to stop the Wilmington squad and the final score was 28-20. Theodore, Spivey, and tackle George Brown were responsible for the Wilmington touchdowns. Fullback Carl Warwick stood out as an excellent ball carrier and rusher. Showing great potential was Earl Cole, a speedy junior who really played with his heart in the game and should prove to be one of the best on next year's team.

Next on the NHHS agenda was a conference game with Goldsboro. The Wildcats, much improved on defensive work, came from behind to cop to 28-13 victory. Making its best showing yet, the team members starred in every way. Fullback Carl Warwick alone piled up 102 yards of rushing, and Jackie Theodore had a net gain of 64 yards. End Larry Edens caught five out of ten passes; Warwick got five for six; Spivey snagged two out of four; big David Ward collected four out of eight; and Theodore collared two. Linemen who drew praise for their defensive work were guards Gene Padrick and Mac Williams, tackle Ed Efird, and center Buddy Stewart.

Facing their strongest opponents of the season, the Wildcats next met Wilson, unbeaten and possessing a strength of wide renown. The largest crowd of the season attended this, the Wildcats' Homecoming Game, and no one was disappointed. Although the Wildcats came out on the short end, they gave Wilson a fight which nearly floored the first place team. Once again the brilliant passing of Leon Brogden, Jr., coupled with the equally brilliant receiving of his targets accounted for most of the home team gains. Beautiful defensive work by the Brogdenmen held the title-hungry Cyclones until the last three minutes of the fourth quarter, when the Wilson team broke through to win the game 7-6. The loss, however, was eased by the fact that the 'Cats gave Wilson its toughest competition of the season. Larry Edens made the Wildcat six-pointer, while Earl Cole, Buddy Stewart, Mac Williams, Ed Efird, and George Brown were cited as defensive standouts.

Traveling next to Durham, the Wildcats played their poorest game of the season, losing 27-7. Poor defensive and offensive work accounted for a portion of the loss but the 'Cats contributed some fine action during the first quarter. Brogden's passing was superior as usual but his receivers were too often in the wrong spot. Edens was responsible for the one Wilmington touchdown, and Brogden kicked the extra point. Warwick again evidenced prowess in the ground game, but the cooperation of the rest of the team was sorely needed.

Raring to regain their prestige and self-respect after the crushing Durham onslaught, the Brogdenmen traveled to Fayetteville for the final clash of the season. Exploding on land and in the air, the Wildcats ended the season in high style piling up 45 points against Fayetteville's 20 points. Theodore scored twice on aerials from Brogden; Warwick tallied twice on the ground; Spivey caught a scoring pass; Ward caught a touchdown pass; and George Brown received another. The Wildcats had a field day on the ground and for the first time during the season, rushing yardage was higher than aerial yardage. Brogden kicked the extra points, completing three of them. As usual, his passing was phenomenal and Brogden could well be termed the guiding star of the team.

Thus the 1958 season ended with an exuberant team being escorted off the field by a huge crowd of spectators who were proud of their team's conference of three wins, three losses, and an overall record of three wins, five losses, and one tie.

Talent and strength underlie the varsity.

Underlying the Wildcat varsity this year were a strong group of boys in the form of the "B" squad and the Jayvees. Possessing a great potential, both of these teams received thorough workouts and training to make the most of their talents. Through this expert developing process, these "beef" teams were processed and cured in a series of games with teams of equal status throughout eastern North Carolina. In this manner, material for the varsity is readied and subsequently, the Wildcats have a never-ending supply of well-trained, hard-playing boys who have had their individual skills developed to the fullest before they reach the real competition that comes with being a member of the Varsity.

Both the "B" squad and the Jayvees had excellent records this year thanks to the superb coaching of Buck Hardee and Calvin Lane.

Lean hoopsters learn the value of teamwork.

Fast action and lively team play make basketball one of the most exciting of sports. For this reason, basketball is growing in popularity every day. More and more people are turning out each year to watch this exciting sport.

The ability to move fast and think even faster is very essential in the game. Many hours are spent in learning new plays and maneuvers in addition to improving the individual skills. These raw materials combined with the desire of each player to win produce a team of which everyone can be proud. These characteristics are certainly found in this year's edition of the NHHS basketball team.

As cold weather arrives, the lean NHHS hoopsters, wearing their gaily colored uniforms, begin to pound the hardwood once again. The gym becomes alive with the shouts of the spectators, the Cagers claim an undefeated conference record.

When the first conference game rolled around, the Wildcats settled down to great, steady ball handling. After walking over the Raleigh Caps with a 61-36 victory, they went on to take the Fayetteville Bulldogs for their second loop victory.

The winning streak was now started — a streak that engulfed Wilson by a score of 69-47, the tough Rocky Mount Blackbirds 58-45, and the Durham Bulldogs. The Cats went on to halt the Goldsboro Quakers 65-43.

The Wildcats then travelled to Raleigh to defeat the Caps 53-39, giving the Cats their seventh conference win. Returning home, the Wilmington cagemen made their biggest splash of the season by rolling over the helpless Fayetteville Bulldogs with an 82-44 victory. Eleven Port City cagers saw action in this contest. The lean hoopsters then climaxed the regular season by defeating Wilson, Goldsboro, Rocky Mount, and Durham, all for the second time. The Cats now occupied first place with a regular season record of sixteen wins and one loss.

Ed Peacock remembers what the coach said about making foul shots.

Ronner again. That boy definitely gets around.

Exciting moments crowd every game.

Having won all twelve conference games, the Wildcats had first place in the eastern conference and were chosen to go to the State tournament at Greensboro.

The locals were scheduled to meet Salisbury on the first night, a team which they had never played before. Both teams used tight defenses and many fouls were committed. The Cats used a sharp eye at the free throw line and hit 31 out of 47 attempts while Salisbury hit 15 out of 29.

Leading by 15 points with only four minutes left to play, Coach Brogden's Port City team had to hold off a Yellow Jacket threat that narrowed the margin to only four points with 1:38 left in the game. In spite of this the Cats pulled through with a 57-51 victory. Co-Captain Larry Edens, season-long pace setter, led the way with 17 points. Leon Brogden, Jr., followed closely with 14 points. Jerry Spivey and Terry Ronner also hit in double numbers with 13 and 12 points respectively.

The '58-'59 season saw many moments like this.

Next in line were the Durham Bulldogs. Wilmington gained an opening lead and coasted to victory over the Bulldogs who were behind as much as 14 points at one time in the game. NHHS turned on a fine defensive effort with Terry Ronner heading with 12 rebounds.

Sparking a 23 out of 30 attempts from the charity mark, the Eastern Champions used only five players, three hitting in double figures. Terry Ronner paced the attack with 16 points, Larry Edens had 14, and Leon Brogden, Jr., had 10.

This victory led the way to State finals with the Greensboro Whirlies. Greensboro had a tough squad, as the Wildcats found out in that double overtime non-conference game at the beginning of the season. Besides this, the Cats were faced with certain disadvantages. They were playing on Greensboro's home court, and the law of averages was definitely against them. The Wildcats had won thirteen straight tournament games in past seasons, eleven of which were racked up at Greensboro; they hadn't lost a conference game all year; and they had held the State Championship for the last three years.

The homestanding Whirlies missed their first field attempt and then sank seven straight at the offset of the game to take a 14-0 lead over the Wildcats. After this slow start, the Wildcats picked up and came within four points of the Whirlies several times in the game. But this burst of strength was not enough to catch up with the Whirlies who won the game with a final score of 52-40. Larry Edens and Terry Ronner finished in the double numbers with 16 and 14 points respectively.

Although the Wildcats missed out on the championship celebration, they matched the Whirlies for first team All-Tournament selections by placing two star performers on the select squad.

Forward Larry Edens, unanimously selected, and Terry Ronner both were selected on the dream quintet. Leon Brogden, Jr., was also selected for the second team.

Reigning as 1957 State AAA Baseball Champs, the Wildcats of New Hanover High School opened the 1958 season with a strong desire to remain tops in the state. Great potential in the form of returning lettermen Bob Conner, Roman Gabriel, Jerry Wooten, Bill Slack, and Buddy Tilden indicated that the possibility of retaining the crown was highly probable.

Because of rain, the first game of the season which pitted the Wildcats against Fayetteville, was twice postponed, and the 'Cats clashed first with Raleigh. Playing expertly and hitting equally well, the 'Cats triumphed 5-2, and moved confidently to their next conflict.

In football-like weather, the 'Cats next met Rocky Mount and really played a commendable game. Hottest men of the afternoon were pitcher Freddie Ray and Hitters Bob Conner, Bill Slack, and Roman Gabriel. Ray gained his first win of the season, and Conner led the batting department with three for three.

of the conference. Durham was the unlucky victim. Catcher Jerry Wooten made the finest catch of the game, a foul fly caught while standing among Durham's bats near the visitors' bench.

Traveling next to Goldsboro, the Wildcats suffered their first loss of the season. None of the team members got more than one hit and this contributed somewhat to the 3-1 defeat by the Earthquakes.

Wilson gave the Wildcats their next taste of competition and the two teams fought a tension filled battle which ended in a 3-3 deadlock. Both teams exhibited outstanding skill and ability in this contest consequently making it one of the most enjoyable of the season.

Finally making up the Fayetteville game, the Wildcats went hog-wild and crushed the Fayetteville nine 21-0, a splendid whitewash job.

Beginning the second half of the circuit, the Wildcats again met Raleigh's Caps and bowled them right out of the top seat in the conference. Next on the agenda was Goldsboro, and the Wildcats gained revenge when pitcher Bobby Conner carved out a brilliant no-hit, no-run pitching effort against the Earthquakes. This was the fourth shutout of the season for the Brogdenmen and the first no-hitter for Conner, one of the brightest pitching prospects ever to emerge from New Hanover

As the 'Cats moved on, the next victim to be mowed down was Rocky Mount. For the second time during the season, the Brogdenmen literally smeared the Blackbirds, the final score being 12-1.

Doing a repeat performance, the Wildcats again slaughtered the Fayetteville Bulldogs to rack up their eighth loop victory against one loss. Lefty Freddie Ray took credit for the 12-0 whitewash job, although Hollis Hales and Roman Gabriel pitched several innings apiece. Cameron Morgan led the Wilmington batting attack with a four for five average including two doubles; Buddy Tilden slammed a triple and a double; and Larry Edens whacked a double.

triumph and thus ended the season as Eastern AAA Champs.

Moving to the state finals, the Wildcats faced Gastonia and an old jinx. Never had the Wildcats beaten Gastonia for the state title although they had played them six times. Following tradition, the Gastonia nine edged the Wildcats 2-1 in the opener, and handed Bob Conner his first loss of the season after five straight wins. Buddy Tilden got the only Wildcat hit of the game when he smacked a ringing double in the fifth frame.

With their backs against the wall, the 'Cats entered the second game and lost by a heartbreaking

4-3. However, this meant only that the 'Cats were second in the state and the team was quite satisfied with its slot as Eastern AAA Champions and State AAA Runner-up.

Every team needs a strong foundation and the Wildcats are far from lacking this foundation. Beneath the Varsity are the "B" team and the Jayvees, whose skills and abilities are being well developed for the day when they will replace their upper teammates. Behind all this are the coaches whose years of experience and whose ability are greatly responsible for the excellence of the teams which NHHS produces.

Glowing with happiness, lovely Julia Paschall reigned as Varsity Sweetheart.

She's the Varsity Sweetheart — the Belle of the Ball.

Amid colorful decorations, gay couples danced and conversed, thoroughly enjoying the Football Finals Dance—climax to another memorable football season.

Varsity Sweetheart — these two words would bring a smile to the lips of any girl. One of the annual affairs at NHHS is the Football Finals Dance, sponsored by the cheerleaders, and given at the end of the football season in honor of the team.

Highlighting this dance is the presentation of the Varsity Sweetheart. This girl is chosen by the football team. She is the team's idea of the perfect sweetheart and is supposed to possess the qualities that the members of the team would desire their own sweethearts to possess.

This year's dance was a gala affair. Multi-colored football players charged and ran on every post and a vibrant bunch of cheerleaders decorated the front wall of the Student Union. At intermission, an excited crowd waited expectantly as head cheerleader, Bonnie Sullivan, introduced each member of the football team. When the Varsity Sweetheart was finally announced, a pleased crowd loudly applauded as Miss Julia Paschall walked to the throne. Upon taking a seat, she was respectively crowned and presented a bouquet of red roses by Co-Captains Larry Edens and David Ward. And thus, another season of football was gaily closed.

Assistant head cheerleader, Julia Paschall, Advisor, Mrs. Margaret Brock, and head cheerleader, Bonnie Sullivan check the cheerleader's busy schedule.

"Let's go, Wildcats!" echoes through Brogden Hall as the cheerleaders and student body boost their team.

Cheerleaders boost school spirit.

"All right everybody, let's hear Two Bits, and let the team know you mean it! Yell!" These were the typical words this year of head cheerleader, Bonnie Sullivan. Under her direction, the cheerleaders really showed vim, vigor, and vitality in their every activity. Not only did they yield all their energies in keeping the student body solidly behind the team at all the games, but they also lent themselves to numerous other activities.

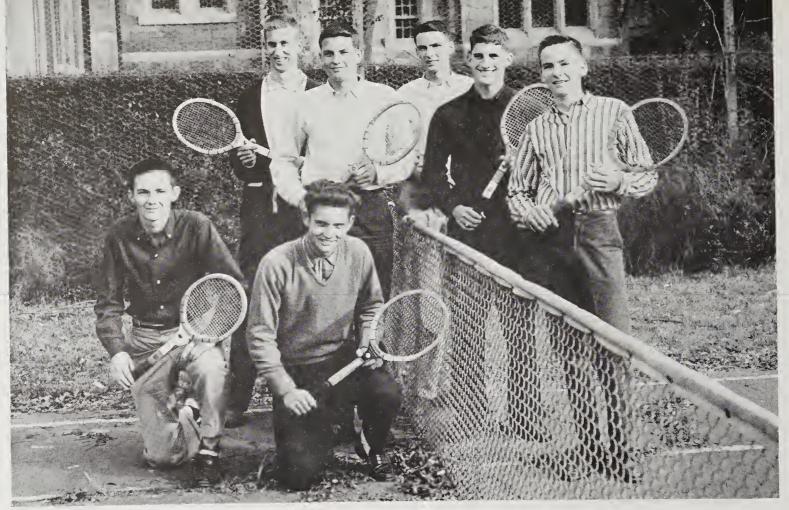

Sportsmanship Week was one of their projects during which every homeroom of NHHS was visited by a cheerleader, a football player, and a Student Congress member. Speeches were made on sportsmanship, and the week was climaxed by a speech over the public address system by the head cheerleader. Weekly pep rallies, a chrysanthemum sale for the Homecoming Game, and the Football Finals Dance helped keep school spirit at a high level. A charming bulletin board for the benefit of the student body was the result of the hard work of Chairman Judy Cumber. Julia Paschall kept the goalposts gaily decorated during football season, and Dorothy Murray did a commendable job as secretary of the organization.

Always willing to offer a helping hand was the group's advisor, Mrs. Margaret Brock, and under her guidance, the cheerleaders experienced another fruitful year.

Attaining character through sportsmanship is one of the main purposes of the Girls' Athletic Association of New Hanover High School, and these girls are superb products of that purpose.

This organization, composed of sports-minded girls, is one of the most active in NHHS and offers hours of enjoyment to the girls who are members. This group of girls show great enthusiasm for all sports activities and consequently, their tournaments and contests are extremely enjoyable.

This year's officers are as follows: President—Margie Cartin; Vice-President—Linda Mohr; Secretary—Faye Willetts; Treasurer—Sandra Bruton; Sports Director—Libby Ryan; Devotional Chairman—Elizabeth Wood; Point Recorder—Gerry Greer; and Reporter—Beverly Jones. Each of the preceding girls is a faithful GAA member and under their leadership, the group has compiled an excellent record this year.

Mrs. Jean Tillett, advisor for the group, is every bit as active as one of her girls. Always willing to Talking over the busy GAA schedule are Vice-President—Linda Mohr; President—Margie Cartin; Secretary—Faye Willetts; and Treasurer—Sandra Bruton.

demonstrate the technique of some difficult maneuver in basketball, or lend a helping hand in the mastery of a tennis stroke, she is the indispensable foundation of this group.

GAA activities are widespread and varied. From early fall until the end of the school year, their schedule is running over with various activities.

Volleyball is one of the first sports of the year. A Round-Robin tournament is played in this sport. Everyone plays and, win or lose, everyone has a good time.

Basketball is the next major sport in which the girls are engaged. A Round-Robin tournament is used here, too. During these tournaments, each girl learns new techniques and thereby improves her ability. Most important of all, however, are the lessons of good sportsmanship which are derived from these intramural contests.

Another activity which is widely participated in is the ping pong tournament. This table tennis competition calls for rapid thinking and moving, and the benefits from this activity are useful to every girl.

Many girls participate in the badminton doubles tournament, which is another of the activities of the GAA. Still others enjoy the pleasure that comes from shuffleboard, and should the interest in this activity continue to increase, a tournament will be organized in this sport also.

One of the most commendable contributions of the GAA are the dances the girls present at the Spring Festival. Many hours of intense practice are spent on the dances and the final product is a beautiful thing. The girls dance the parts of the boys also. Gay, colorful costumes add a lovely flair to the performance, but most interesting are the intricate steps which the girls have successfully mastered. As a result of much hard work and many hours of concentration, this performance has become one of the most eagerly awaited events at New Hanover High School.

The most outstanding characteristics of the girls in this group are their willingness to work together and their fine sense of fair play. These attributes are the basic purposes of the GAA and in every activity, Mrs. Tillett strives to teach the girls the importance of such characteristics. Mrs. Tillett is totally responsible for the fine spirit among these girls, and she is continually striving to promote good sportsmanship among the girls of NHHS.

The Color Guard impressively leads the companies.

The dignified appearance and bearing of the N.H.H.S. Color Guard reflect the spirit of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. When the Color Guard marches before the battalion in a parade, the onlookers are always impressed by their pride. The Color Guard is expected at all times to uphold the high standards of the battalion. Members of the Color Guard during the year 1958-59 were H. B. Morgan, L. C. Weaver, J. A. Smith, Jr., and G. B. Meadows. Proper honor and respect to the National Flag and to the R.O.T.C. organization are the main objectives of these boys. They are also responsible for the appropriate custody and display of these emblems at parades and ceremonies. Our R.O.T.C. Color Guard, marching always before the companies, serves as a reminder to each cadet that although he may be a small part of a large system, the system cannot run efficiently without him.

In the R.O.T.C. of New Hanover High School, the only unit of its kind in all North Carolina high schools, the Battalion Staff is made up of the cadet officers. This staff leads the unit into all formations. Boys in the R.O.T.C. are expected to uphold the highest standards at all times and to work diligently to keep up the already-established reputation of being a very fine Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

Officers plan the R.O.T.C. Ball and other projects.

Serving as aids to the instructors and to the cadets, the members of the Officers' Club carry out its purpose, to perform social functions, to foster better relations between cadet officers, and to promote fellowship, school spirit, and patriotism. The membership of this club is composed of all third-year cadets wishing to join. This year it was decided that all non-commissioned officers would be honorary members. Meeting on Wednesday afternoon, these cadets and their officers: President, Buck O'Shields; Vice-President, John Kopp; Secretary-Treasurer, William Hartzog; and Charlie Baggett, Parliamentarian; work together with Major Fred H. Muret to plan various projects of the year. One of the most important projects of the Officers' Club is the annual ROTC Ball.

As a whole, the cadets from the various companies are a very impressive sight, but this year the officers were quite distinctive in their recently acquired green hats. After a unanimous vote by the Officers' Club, it was decided to buy the brighter hats.

From their inspiring performance at the homecoming game, the well-planned ROTC Ball, and many other ROTC activities; the students of NHHS should realize that ROTC is one of the most active organizations in the school. With these commending thoughts in mind, we then turn to congratulate the officers; for we realize that every strong organization must have capable leaders.

The Sound of the drill instructor's voice, hours of drilling, and thorough discussions on military weapons are very familiar to the ROTC cadet. Dressed in neat uniforms with shining brass and carefully polished shoes, all cadets assemble at the ROTC building for formation on Monday and Friday mornings during first period. After receiving their rifles, the group marches in strict formation to the parade grounds, located at Thirteenth and Ann Streets. After the first few weeks of the school year, each cadet begins to become accustomed to the military pattern of the ROTC, and soon each marching unit carries out carefully and precisely every command issued to it with the skill of an expertly trained unit.

Even though the training received by the cadets in this junior ROTC battalion is mainly of a military nature, its purpose is multiple. It helps the cadet develop habits of orderliness, precision, courtesy, correctness of posture, and respect for and loyalty to constituted authority. Another important feature about the ROTC is that it aids the cadets to develop leadership. The first year is generally spent learning organization, rules of conduct, and many other things, but in second and third year, the cadet has more chance to rise in rank and exercise a degree of leadership.

The key work in ROTC is preparation. The training received by the cadet is given with a thought of the future. The ROTC, of course, prepares students for future military service. It also informs these students of the opportunities open for service in the Army. Their classroom training, which comprises two of their seven hours a week for ROTC, introduces many skills to the cadets. Among these are map-reading, marksmanship, and cleaning weapons. But military service is not the only thing for which cadets are prepared; for the leadership training may prove invaluable in a possible future business position, and the habits of orderliness and precision, if allowed to take root, will be of benefit in home life as well as business.

Throughout the year ROTC cadets are encouraged to compete. This takes the form of either group or individual companies competition. At the inspection on Friday, one Honor Cadet is chosen from each company on the basis of personal neatness and military knowledge, and from these four Honor Cadets one Distinguished Cadet is chosen. Another recognition is the Honor Company of the week, announced by the instructors each Monday. The more important awards, however, come toward the end of the year. At a regular formation at this time, awards are presented to the Company, Platoon, and Squad of the year. In addition there are four distinctions given to individuals. Medals are given by the Optimist Club, American Legion, and Sons of the American Revolution to the most outstanding first-year, second-year, and third-year cadet in recognition of their outstanding character. The most coveted award of the year is the Cape Fear Sword, presented annually by the North Eastern Carolina Citadel Alumni to the third-year cadet who has been the most outstanding throughout the school year.

The Cape Fear Rifles are adorned in white helmets and gloves.

Those ROTC cadets who are distinguished by their white helmets and gloves have the honor of being members of the Cape Fear Rifles Drill Platoon. The purpose of the club is to promote better understanding among its members. These cadets strive to make their team one of the best and most outstanding teams in the school. The club is indeed a precision drill team.

The Cape Fear Rifles bring favorable publicity to the school and to the ROTC Battalion by their dashing drill performances at the presentation of sponsors during the homecoming game, presentation of officers during the ROTC Ball, the Cape Fear Sword Presentation, and various other ceremonies. The group practices diligently many hours; and their practice, precision, and skill are evident when the cadets perform on such occasions as the Azalea Festival Parade and the Azalea Ball.

Demonstrating their expert team work, the following members of the Cape Fear Rifles perform the Queen Anne salute. They are J. A. Robbins, Jr., E. B. Stack, J. L. Galloway, W. D. Alred.

This band is composed of those members of the high school band who are enrolled in ROTC. The main function of the ROTC Band is to provide military music for parade and formation of the Corps. This year the band is under the direction of Dr. Fred J. Bouknight and Cadet Captain William Carter Mebane III with Anne Lynn Chapman as its sponsor. After the many hours of practice, the cadets may be counted on to give an impressive performance with precision formation and brilliant marches. Members of this group perform as musicians two homeroom periods each week and report for classroom instructions at two additional homeroom periods. Lively marches, strict formation, and excellent performance give these cadets outstanding honors. Through their constant practice and interest in the band these cadets are worthy of the high honor which is given them in the battalion.

The Rifle Team participates in national firing matches.

Practicing long hours to become more adept at the art of handling a rifle, the Rifle Team has won the reputation of being one of New Hanover High School's outstanding groups. With the national firing matches before them, the members of the group exert a special effort to do as Coach Sgt. Oliver D. Blake and Team Captain Lawrence E. Lanier instruct them.

Taking part in competitive firing are I. T. Reynolds, L. T. Howard, R. J. DeYoung, T. J. Estep.

I. T. Reynolds and L. E. Lanier carefully check their score after a match.

Throughout the year the various companies and other ROTC groups participate in many activities. Here we have recorded some of the enjoyable and memorable activities.

The highlights of the year for each ROTC cadet are of course the ROTC Ball and the Homecoming game. The performances of the cadets and the presentation of sponsors at the Homecoming game is always an impressive sight. When at last the long-awaited ROTC Ball arrives, the gay decorations and entertainment combine to form an evening that is long remembered by the cadets and their dates.
